

Nuclear Power: Liability for Damage finally has to become the Duty of the Operators

What is it about?

30 Years after Tschernobyl and 5 years after Fukushima the European Commission is still unable to implement a consistent and binding third party liability insurance for Nuclear Power Plant Operators – to the detriment of all citizens, because we will be the ones to pay the bill.

Hence we find ourselves forced to put pressure on the Parliament by petition once again.

We, the undersigning citizens, once again turn to our elected representatives in the European Parliament with the appeal to call for the European Commission to raise pressure for nuclear power plant operators by moving towards third party liability insurance and by reviving the stalled debate. 30 or 5 years after the warning examples of Chernobyl and Fukushima, a serious community of states must succeed in protecting their citizens at least from financial damage in the event of a reactor accident! The polluter pays principle must be taken into account unconditionally!
